Ari KAMASAN

CEO of Indo Wira SanitasiAri’s passion in sanitation business started when he joined Water and Sanitation Program (WSP) World Bank in 2008 with assignment to apply commercial marketing practices into sanitation market development. The market approach was successfully adopted and had been contributed to the design of Government of Indonesia’s rural sanitation market development program. Some achievements that marked key milestone in rural sanitation market development in Indonesia are accomplished such as one-stop sanitation business model, the establishment of association of rural sanitation enterprises, APPSANI, and financial institution participation in providing credit for customers to purchase toilets. He also provided support to other countries in the region such as Laos, Vietnam, Philippines, and Cambodia for similar project implementation.

Azalea AYUNINGTYAS
Founder and CEO of Du’Anyam Social Enterprise

Du’Anyam is a social enterprise that produces and distributes wicker crafts to economically empower and improve the health of women in rural Indonesia. Du’Anyam provides women with economic opportunities to work with local women’s wicker weaving cooperatives.

Du’Anyam markets these woven products to high-end hotels, and the funds allow women to care for themselves during pregnancy with healthier foods and savings programs. As a graduate student at Harvard University’s School of Public Health, Azalea Ayuningtyas traveled to the slums of Mumbai to conduct research on sanitation. There, she was confronted by a woman who challenged her to push beyond research and to do something which would directly impact into the lives of others.

After receiving her Master’s degree in Epidemiology from Harvard University’s School of Public Health, Azalea took a role in a prestigious consulting firm. However, she connected with high school friends and, together, they decided to try and solve the problems of high-risk pregnancies in the poorest, most remote parts of Indonesia. This led to the formation of Du’Anyam, a social enterprise that provides women economic opportunity, beyond the physically challenging traditional subsistence farming.

Want to know more about Social Enterprise? Come down and attend the TBN Asia Conference to hear from Azalea Ayuningtyas, Founder and CEO of Du’Anyam Social Enterprise!

SPEAKERS FOR TBN CONFERENCE 2017

Jezzie SATIWAN
Founder / Chief Executive Officer of Gandeng Tangan

Joanna GILLADOGA
President and Co-Founder of Human Heart Nature

Joanna Gilladoga is currently Head of Retail for Gandang Kalikasan, Inc. -- the social enterprise behind the Human Nature brand. Straight out of university, Joanna was hired by Unilever in 1996 where the first paving stone on the path to social enterprise was unknowingly laid out. Her 5-year marketing stint at Unilever was followed by a sabbatical where she immersed herself in full-time church ministry, an environmental NGO, and a scuba diving company. In 2008, Joanna re-joined the corporate world with Avon motivated by the idea of inclusive wealth wherein the direct-selling giant’s path to growth was directly proportional to its success in providing extra income for over a million Avon women and their families. After ending her stint as Group Manager for Avon’s cosmetics business for Southeast Asia, Joanna moved on to setting up a retail business with friends focusing on locally-sourced natural and organic products. It was then that she encountered Human Nature – a mere 6 months old then – for the very first time. Upon meeting with Human Nature founders, Dylan Wilk and Anna Meloto-Wilk, it was love at first sight. A shared love for the vision for the Philippines. Joanna’s history came rushing back with a resounding realization: her experience with a marketing powerhouse in Unilever, a direct-selling giant in Avon, compassion for the poor in church ministry, love for nature with the environmental NGO, and an appreciation for natural & organic products in her business... they were all in preparation for that meeting. Joanna immediately said YES to the calling to build the marketing team from ground up and has later on taken on the challenge to scale-up and expand distribution into the retail sector. Since then, 8 years ago, Joanna has been happily sharing the advocacy of nation-building and poverty-alleviation through enterprise.

NGUYEN Thi Van
Director of Will to Live/ Co-founder of Imagtor

Ms. Nguyen Thi Van, Co-founder of Imagtor, a video and photography editing service that employs People with Disabilities. My brother and I have severe disability, we would worry and fear for our future when we see people like us living on the street as beggars, living a hopeless life. I hear my parents at night, whispering their worries about us when they be old; and I see my parents working with all there might to save money for us when they no longer be able to care for us so I attempted suicide when I was 13, and I thought without me my family wouldn’t have to suffer such hardship and worries. However, my longing to live is stronger than my sorrow, I need to fight to live and facing all the hardships. I want to see how life will treat me. After high school, I left home travelling 300 km to the capital, looking for a better life. It was not easy until I found a job that paid well. I can pay for my life, my career, and have money to send to my family. But I know in my country, there is around 10 millions with disabilities. And their stories are no different from mine. That’s the reason why Will To Live was created by my brother and I. It is supporting the disabled with free computer training and life skills. We helped 800 disabled, 80% of them having well paid jobs, they can be independent, earn a living, and especially make their own decisions. After my brother passed away in 2012, I am responsible for Will to Live. Will to Live runs smoothly, we have difficulties in funding and sustainability. That’s why we establish the company Imagtor in 2016 specializing in photo editing. After one year part profits of the company are used for funding the Will to Live.

Shanon KHADKA

CEO of Enchanted Farm

Shanon Khadka, 25, graduated from Ateneo with a degree in Management with Applied Chemistry but chose to work full-time with Gawad Kalinga. All of them were meant to have brilliant, conventional careers but then they discovered the “brilliance of the poor”. They realized that poor communities had unique know-hows such as the optimization of local resources. However, this was practiced only at a small scale which was not enough to get the poor out from hardship. The poor may have a unique knowledge of nature, but they had no land, no capital and no access to the market to distribute their products. Knowing this, Ron, Xilca, and Shanon were inspired to act on the obvious opportunity — leaving their comfort zones to become social entrepreneurs who would help empower these communities through the development of the local agricultural sector.

Tommy PACATANG
Resource Development Director of Habitat for Humanity Indonesia

Mr. Tommy PACATANG is the Resource Development Director of Habitat for Humanity Indonesia. He is a Filipino but has lived in Indonesia for the past 16 years. He has served in several national and regional roles in developing the program of Habitat for Humanity in the region. Currently, he is leading a team in Habitat for Humanity Indonesia to raise funds from the corporate, from the high net-worth individuals, and from all segments of donors to support the national program of Habitat in Indonesia - to build more houses for the needy people. The vision of Habitat for Humanity is to have "A world where everyone has a decent place to live." He and his wife are blessed with four children.

Habitat for Humanity's Boiler Plate

Decent housing acts as a foundation for breaking the poverty cycle; it opens the door to improved health, better performance in school and greater economic opportunities hence positively impacting a child’s education and their future prospects. As the country’s shelter crisis impacts a range of development issues, Habitat’s work touches upon many fields. In addition to providing decent homes, Habitat responds to disasters, provide water and sanitation, health education, and develop environmentally sustainable housing solutions. Habitat for Humanity Indonesia has served more than 50,000 families (by end of July 2017) across 13 provinces since it began operating in 1997. Indonesia is the world’s fourth most populous country where an estimated 13.6 million people are in need of housing (Badan Pusat Statistik / Statistics Indonesia, bps.go.id). also there are about 7 million un-decent homes in our country (Ministry of Public Work and Housing). With a target to serve an additional 50,000 families by 2020, Habitat for Humanity Indonesia needs to raise more support. This important work is funded largely by the support of generous donations from organizations, individuals and NGOs.

Partnering with Habitat ensures that people can make a difference to the lives of those who desperately need our help. Please join Habitat to create an Indonesia where everyone has the opportunity to fulfill their own dreams, fulfill their basic human right to shelter deprived through poverty, conflicts or disasters. Support Habitat for Humanity Indonesia and make a difference to the lives of those who need the most help. Let’s build strength, stability, self-reliance, and shelter. For more info, visit www.habitatindonesia.org, follow Facebook Habitat.Indonesia, Twitter @HabitatID, and Instagram @Habitat_ID.

Tony MELOTO
Founder of Gawad Kalinga

Tony MELOTO is the founder of Gawad Kalinga, a movement that builds integrated, holistic and sustainable communities in slum areas and remote rural communities with a vision to end poverty for 5 million Filipino families by 2024.
At a young age, Tony was exposed to the squalid living conditions of the poor, his home being near a shoreline squatter community where poverty was very pronounced. After graduating from Ateneo de Manila University with a B.A. in Economics, he worked as Purchasing Manager at Procter & Gamble. In 1995, Tony started working with the poor in the slums of Bagong Silang, Caloocan City, through a youth program that has evolved into Gawad Kalinga. GK has been implemented in over 3,500 communities in the Philippines and other developing countries such as Indonesia, Cambodia and Papua New Guinea. GK is not just a provider of housing but communities where beneficiaries are trained to cultivate sustainable sources of livelihood. GK has now entered into its 2nd phase of development focused on integrating sustainability in the communities it has built through the GK Enchanted Farm Village University Template. With a deliberate focus on countryside development and social entrepreneurship, the Farm Village University is the first of its kind in the world, designed to become a destination for Social Tourism, a venue for Social Education and an incubator for Social Business whose end goal is to raise 500,000 social entrepreneurs to create wealth where no one is left behind. Described as a radical optimist, Tony is now building an inclusive platform for global partnerships, particularly in Europe, having partnered with 32 European Universities, 22 of which are French, attracting an average of 300 interns every year since 2012. The platform aims to promote social entrepreneurship for inclusive growth, bridging Europe through internships and humanitarian service with the Asian market to discover the vast opportunities in the emerging economies, with the Philippines as the hub. In the last 7 years, he has been invited to speak in many global forums, bringing attention to this unique model for sustainable development that brings together the rich and the poor to work in solidarity towards addressing humanity’s most pressing challenges—climate change, extreme poverty and food security. At a time when most are happy to leave the country to look for greener pastures, Gawad Kalinga sparks hope in the Filipino dream—to restore this great nation and once again be proud to be Filipino. This is Tony’s passion. A true man for others, he has inspired not just his family but hundreds and thousands of volunteers throughout the country and the world towards creating shared prosperity where the poor can thrive and attain to their fullest potentials so that together, we can all look forward to a better future for our children and the generations to come. William HENDRADJAJA
Founder of HORE Indonesia

William Hendradjaja, a social entrepreneur, is passionate about connecting people. He believes that a network of a collaborative ecosystem is a powerful catalyst for creating shared value and building sustainable impact. Since graduating from the University of British Columbia in Vancouver, Canada in 2010, William has been actively involved in various personal and organizational efforts to tackle educational problems that are prevalent among school-aged children in at-risk neighborhoods in Indonesia. Out of his aspiration to give the children more access to excel academically and socially, he founded House of Reading and Education (HORE) Indonesia in 2014. Through HORE Indonesia, William also hopes to connect like-minded people to bring about positive and sustainable changes in the landscape of Indonesia’s K12 education. As the founder of HORE Indonesia, William is responsible for developing programs and campaigns, establishing partnerships and collaborations with stakeholders, and supporting community development.

William views his work at HORE Indonesia as a life-long endeavor. What he loves most from being a part of HORE Indonesia team is working with volunteers who all share the same passion of improving the children’s learning experience. This has strengthened William’s commitment to focus his work on community development.

Finally, in early 2016, William took the leap of faith embarking on a new journey to realizing a community and a co-working space for social entrepreneurs in Jakarta. His vision is to help people to initiate and accelerate sustainable social impact movement and ventures in Indonesia and to develop a better education system for Indonesia.
